18.2

The value of the Products that the Member can buy, sell or transfer via the Websites and the Mobile App may fluctuate upward or downward, namely dependent on the date of the transaction and on the applicable Price List. As a result, the Company does not, in any way, guarantee that the Member will make any capital gains.

18.6

The Company does not warrant the Members that (i) the Services, which are the subject of an ongoing pursuit of performance improvements and progress, will be

18.7

In any case, any liability that the Company may incur hereunder will be expressly limited to proven direct damages to the Member.

19. Bankruptcy of the Company

If the Company should cease its business activities, as part of the implementation of court-ordered liquidation proceedings, the Products held in the Vaults will be sold at market price. Compensation for that sale will be transferred into the Member's bank account, as recorded at the time of registration.

20. Force Majeure

The parties agree that a force majeure event, meaning an unforeseeable, unavoidable and insurmountable outside the control of the party that is a victim thereto, will suspend the contractual obligations, from the time of communication of proof of the force majeure event by the aforementioned party until it has been extinguished.

Those suspended obligations must be fulfilled again, once the effects of the force majeure event have come to an end.

However, in the case of a persistent event, lasting more than 30 (thirty) days, these General Terms of Use may, at the parties' discretion, be terminated, as of right, and this, without any compensation being payable to either party.

That termination will come into effect within 72 (seventy-two) hours of the Sale of all of the Products that the Members hold in the Vaults and of payment of the Sale Price, less any applicable fees.

Given the specific nature of the Services that it offers, the Company undertakes to take the necessary steps, in the case of a force majeure event, to protect the Products entrusted to it.

In the case of a serious national or international crisis, a panel of the 20 most active Members will be formed (hereinafter, the “Members’ Panel”), in order to assist the Company, in a consultative capacity, with making the best choices to ensure the continuity of the Services, the integrity and top value of the Products kept by the Company, in its Vaults, on behalf of the Members.

For example, in the event of a serious national or international crisis, the Company might, after consulting with the Members’ Panel, change the physical location of the Products and how they are stored. Such a transfer may give rise to extraordinary fees, negotiated with the Members’ Panel, which would be communicated to all of the Members for acceptance, via the intermediary of the Websites.

21. Consequences of the Death of a Member

In the event of the death of a Member, the Account will automatically be blocked, without notice. The Products deposited in the Vaults by the Member will be retained by the Company, pending instructions from the Member’s legal heirs or from the notary responsible for handling the estate.

During that time, the oxidation fees stipulated in Article 8.2 will continue to apply and must be paid by the date of termination of the Account.

That termination will come into effect within 72 (seventy-two) hours of the Sale of all of the Products held in the Vaults and of payment of the Sale Price, less any applicable fees, as stated on the Websites.

22. Intellectual Property of the Company

The systems, software, structures, infrastructure, databases and content of all types (texts, images, visuals, music, logos, brands, etc.) that are employed by the Company on the Websites or the Mobile App are protected by all intellectual property rights and all database rights in effect. Any dismantling, decompilation, decryption, extraction, reuse, copies and, more generally, any actions to reproduce, broadcast, display or use any of those elements, in whole or in part, without the Company's authorization, is strictly prohibited, and the perpetrator thereof may be prosecuted.
